

NO GOOGLE GLASS.

In an attempt to keep cyborg takeover confined to the fictional world for as long as humanly possible, this establishment has a NO GOOGLE GLASS policy. If you are wearing a Google Glass, or any other face-mounted recording device, you will be asked to remove the device, or to leave the premises. Thank you for your cooperation.

But BCI memory data ≠ Google Glass: so what's the difference?

- Potentially can reconstruct it from memories after the fact for archiving.
- Unlikely to be as highly reliable as the Pensieve, but potential to be pervasive nonetheless.
- Might not be direct recording of images, but processed information: feeling-tracking, for example, thoughts and concepts, which might include people and places, highly identifiable records captured indiscriminately.

Recapping Data Protection in the Department of Mysteries

